

A "DIGGING DETAIL."

There is something so "back to naturish" about the digging detail that the boys just can't resist "that impulse" to volunteer for a job of this kind. Think of the joy of being able to dig down into hard mother earth, and perhaps if you're lucky finding a bit of primitive rock to tustle with?!$* Here are some of the boys whiling away the afternoon, each willingly doing his "bit." (See the two especially hard "bitters" in the lower left hand corner.)